

Chicago, Ill.

Dear Mr. Strongfoot.

I received my tenth and last lesson to day. During my course I received the most courteous attention that any one could expect, I wish to say one thing that might be of some use that I improved considerably more than I thought I would. Your course has done wonders for me and I do hope every man who wishes to improve himself could give your course a trial. I'm sure he would not be disappointed. I can't praise your course too highly. Thanking you for your past courteous attention I beg to remain

Your Pupil,

Mr. Jos. B. Lubren.
